Volunteers For the War.

When the President calls for volunteers shall I come forward and offer my service? This is the question that is today agitating the breasts of many good Americans who are brave and patriotic, but who would not find it convenient to enlist unless their service should be imperatively needed.

Many who have been classed as jingoes in the past fear to meet with taunts in case they do not go to the war, and yet in many cases they do not feel that they can leave their homes and their responsibility.

For all such there is comfort in the fact that the great majority of our citizens, well and healthy as they may consider themselves, could not enlist under present laws even if they desired to do so. A soldier today must at the moment of enlistment be between 21 and 30 years of age and must be unmarried. These requirements alone would shut out a great many applicants. Add that the recruit must be of good character and habits, able-bodied, free from disease, at least 5 feet 4 inches in height and weight between 128 and 190 pounds, and it begins to be evident that Uncle Sam's men are a very select body indeed.

Of course, these requirements would be relaxed in case of war. The age might be extended to 45 years and the height might be reduced. Probably married men would be taken as freely as single. But even at the most liberal allowance that this government is at all likely to make in the present crisis it is evident that many and many a man would not be eligible.

Of course, in a great crisis, these rules would be abolished and practically every one would be enlisted—nay, would be conscripted. In the late war, the Confederates conscripted every one between 16 and 60, but there is not the remotest probability of such a thing occurring in any contemplated war with Spain. In fact, it would not be surprising if the limitations were strictly maintained.

But supposing that you were one of those who filled all requirements, would you enlist? No one will be conscripted. The militia regiments will be given a chance to enter the United States service as organized bodies, but any one of their number who for any reason objects to so entering can not be required to do so under any present or contemplated laws.—Louisville Dispatch.

WHAT WIVES SHOULD REMEMBER.

By an Impudent Man.

That Adam was made first.
That "he pays the freight."
That "blessed are the meek."
That nine men in ten detest gossip.

That all angels are not females.

That confidence begets confidence.

That men sometimes have "nerves."

That there should be no place like home.

That it takes two to prolong a family jar.

That the least said is the soonest mended.

That with all his faults you love him still.

That you should have no secret from him.

That husbands have trouble of their own.

That he's "all right" when you know him.

That woman's best weapon is her weakness.

That he is just as anxious to get rich as you are.

That home is more than half what you make it.

That wives are usually favored in this country.

That a man likes neatness in your attire always.—Exchange.

Brooklyn can boast of female barbers, female railroad agents, a woman embalmer, three female dry goods merchants, a dozen skirted restaurant keepers, a bevy of pretty football players, a feminine gold curst and several feminine real estate phlogers. To these have just been added a dozen blacksmiths in petticoats.

The Editor Clubbed.

"There's a man down stairs with a club looking for the editor," remarked the devil, unconcernedly, to the boss of the sanctum, as he walked around and set the towel up in the corner.

"Good Lord!" groaned the editor, "are you sure?"

"Dead," insisted the boy. "He was lookin' for the editor, that's what he said."

"What kind of a man was he?"

"Tough, country-jake sort of a lookin' chap, as big as a skinned horse, with hands onto him like hams," answered the boy with a wicked and heartless leer.

"What kind of a club did he have; anything like a dray pin?" suggested the editor, watching the door nervously.

"Wait till I go an' see," said the boy in a sympathizing spirit.

In a few minutes he returned; the editor in the mean time having dreams and visions and nightmares of all uncanny kind.

"Well?" queried the editor, mopping the cold and clammy sweat from his dome of thought with a last winter's blotter, "Well?"

"Rats!" growled the boy, "It was a club of twenty new subscribers."

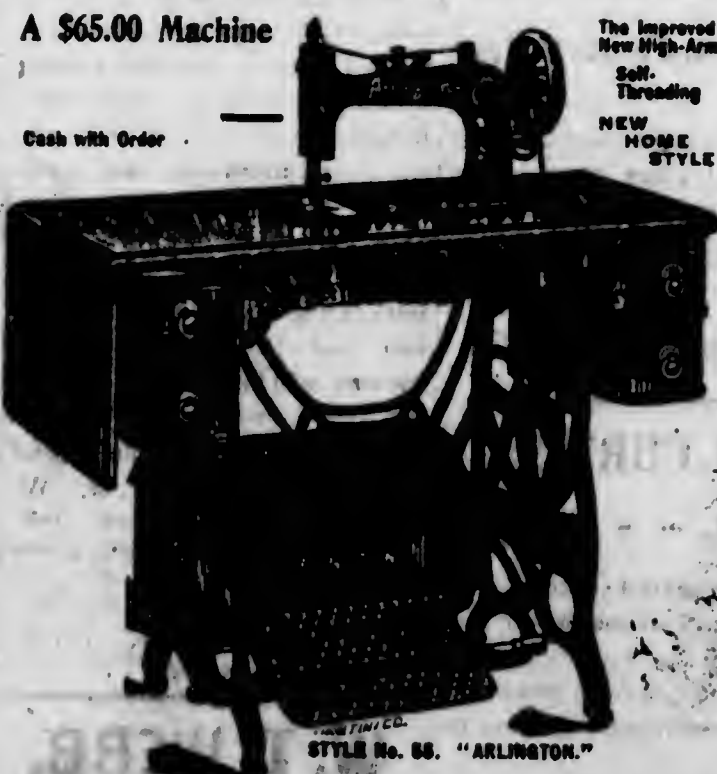

Then the editor kicked the boy gently and told him to bring the man up forthwith.—Exchange.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

We are authorized to announce
JOHN E. GARNER
as a candidate for Congress from the Tenth District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

WAR BEGINS TO-DAY.

The President has Signed The War Resolutions, and Spain Given Until This Morning to Reply to Our Ultimatum.

Unless Spain backs down by this morning at six o'clock we will wage war with that country.

The President has signed the Cuban Resolutions and Spain has been sent Our Ultimatum and given until this morning at six o'clock to reply, if by this time no reply is made, our fleet will be put in hostile motion.

Gen. Lee has been appointed Major General and will lead the first column into Havana.

The following are the joint resolutions passed by the Senate and House of Representatives and signed by President McKinley:

Resolved, By the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America, in Congress assembled,

1. That the people of the island of Cuba are and of right ought to be free and independent, and that the Government of the United States hereby recognizes the Republic of Cuba as the true and lawful Government of that island.

2. That it is the duty of the United States to demand, and the Government of the United States does hereby demand, that the Government of Spain at once relinquish its authority and government in the island of Cuba and withdraw its land and naval forces from Cuba and Cuban waters.

3. That the President of the United States be, and hereby is directed and empowered to use the entire land and naval forces of the United States, and to call into service the United States militia of the several states, to such extent as may be necessary to carry these resolutions into effect.

4. That the United States hereby disclaim any disposition or intention to exercise sov-eighty, jurisdiction or control over said island, except for the pacification thereof, and assert its determination when that is accomplished, to leave the Government and control of the island to its people.

Troops and provisions are being rushed to the southern coast, 50,000 soldiers will go at once to Cuba and join the Cuban army when the capture of Havana and all other important places will be planned.

Congress is considering a call for 80,000 volunteers.

Under the new registration law all druggists are required to register. Heretofore this was required only in towns of 1,000 population or over. To register the druggist must have a diploma from a reputable college of pharmacy, or have had five years' practice before the date of his application. This will work a hardship on many country druggists who have not had the required five years' experience.

Mt. Sterling Court.

There was about 1200 cattle on the market. The quality was fair with some few extra young cattle for sale. The market was very dull. There was fewer sales made by noon than we have known in several years. Cattle have been getting a little higher each court-day for several months and have gotten so high that buyers have called a halt, and refused to take any more cattle at the prices. It is a wise action as farmers were buying stock at such prices that they would hardly realize the purchase price after grazing them through the summer. Sales of steers at from 4 to 5c; heifers at from 3 to 4c; cows at from 2 to 3 cents; Ewes and lambs at $4.85 per head for ewes, lambs thrown in; no hogs on the market. About the usual crowd in attendance, all surrounding counties being represented by buyers. No foreign buyers present. The usual stockmen had cattle here for sale but were a little disappointed in the slow sales.—Mt. Sterling Advocate.

Porous glass is one of the latest novelties. The holes are so small that neither dust nor draught follows use, and yet the ventilation is said to be excellent.

A real gentleman is a fifteen-year-old boy who will give to some plain looking woman in a street car his seat by his best girl.

RIPANS

No matter what the matter is, one will do you good, and you can get ten for five cents.

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABLETS in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—TEN FIVE CENTS. This low priced sort is intended for the poor and the outcast. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tablets) can be had by mail by sending forty eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABLETS) will be sent for five cents. Best medicine ever made since the world was created.
